

CREDIT, CREDIT ACCUMULATION AND MODULES

Note: except where specified, or where an explicit exemption has been approved by Academic Board, these Regulations apply to all assessed learning leading to the award of credit and/or a qualification, and apply to awards of both the University of London and the Royal Veterinary College (see the Regulations of the University of London and the Royal Veterinary College).

1.1.3 (p.6.6) (4.9) (1.2) (5.9) (1.4) (4.9) 2 BDC / T

- co-requisites, i.e. modules or other study to be undertaken simultaneously with the module;
- prohibited combinations, i.e. modules that together shall not contribute towards the credit required for an award.

3. CREDIT LEVEL AND AWARD OF CREDIT

- 3.1. A credit level is an indicator of the relative demand, complexity and depth of learning and of the autonomy expected of the learner. A module/unit of study shall be defined as being at a specified level, consistent with the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications.
- 3.2. Learning outcomes and their assessment requirements specify what a student must achieve to be awarded credit.
- 3.3. The assessment requirements of a module or unit of study will be proportionate to the credit tariff and level of the

.

